

When evaluating potential features or attributes of a cloud computing platform provider, developers and technology decision-makers consistently identify 4 features as most important:

The following results are from an earlier ISV-oriented study conducted in 2008 and are included here to

The fast-growing scope of mobile

